POST OFFICE SAFE IS ROBBED

"Our Town"

by J. B. WHITE

We should know one thing well. Good times or bad times, or anything relative, have naught to do with the celebration and exaltation of Christmas. Thanks be, feeling here comes first, mind second. Millions of hearts respond to centuries of tradition. Detail vanishes and controversy surrenders. The tremendous assertions of love as power, redemption as truth and the Saviour as fact, take possession. Our better selves are borne on a tide

The worst the darkest thinking can say is extinguished by the Christmas spirit. There is no measure. By comparison of that past within the memories of living men, these are good times and this a good year. Taking a range of nearly 2,000 years and noting how, amid such desperations as we now can scarcely conceive, Christmas was observed, becomes another reflection. But Spartan philosophizing is needless. There is no measure, least of all a money measure. We are seized by that in the heart, forget restraints and—give. It can be no one's boast and becomes towdry with too much show. It is normal.

As the Romans on the streets above in orgies celebrated the Saturnalia, or the ancient Feast of the Sun, the first celebrations of Christmas are said to have been held by the early Christians in the catacombs of Rome, below. In 400 A. D., by the Pope's action, Christmas became an ordained Church festival. Gradually, in the Christian world, Christmas supplanted earlier celebrations held prior to a concluding celebration of the New Year. Its centuries promulgate the conception of another sovereignty over life and spirit as well, one of which self-sacrifice is the rule of action and love of mankind the power.

Christmas, 1935, will soon be at hand. Joy shall prevail against sadness, the dark places in the world be made bright, the unhappy made happy. It cannot be otherwise. As it was centuries ago, so it remains. More widely than any message on radio waves is Christmas broadcast from heart to heart among the people of half the earth.

There is no dread that sits more heavily upon motorists than that of children darting into their path without warning. Even the most careful drivers may have such experiences. Nor is it an infrequent occurance. Every year thousands of children are killed or mained in this manner because communities cannot mix playing children with moving traffic without disastrous results.

And what is the average community doing about it? Playgrounds are available to some children in summer but the roller-skater and bicycle-rider cannot go there and in winter even the playgrounds are closed.

The cities and towns of tomorrow will be planned with this need in mind. There will be no busy thoroughfares for children to cross going to and from school and recreational centers. But the "new town" of the "new day" is still only a vision, allowing one or two exceptions of an experimental nature. Something must be done to make the old town of the old day a safer place in which to play.

FUNERAL IS HELD FOR TRUCK VICTIM

Funeral services for Bart Matthews, 41, farmer and truck driver, were conducted on Sunday at 5 p. m. from the church at North Elm by Rev. J. Coy Williams, pastor of the First Methodist church, Cameron. Interment was made in the North Elm cemetery.

Matthews, who lived four miles from Cameron between Cameron and Buckholts, was killed on Saturday night at 6:30 on the highway between Temple and Rosebud. In his attempt to go around another car without a tail light, he was blinded by the lights of another car from the opposite direction, and side-swiped a poultry truck, it was reported.

Ed Lovick and Willie Ponder of Cameron were riding in the 1935 truck and trailer with Matthews. Each received bruises. Matthews was crushed badly.

Matthews was born in Arkansas, and came to Texas when a young man. He was married in this county, November 3, 1918. His wife, a son, Hubert; two daughters, Irma and Ellie Matthews; his father, W. JOHN EDWIN TODD IS BURIED LITTLE RIVER

John Edwin Todd, a prominent pioneer stock-farmer of this county, died at his country home near Maysfield November 26, following a two weeks' siege of pneumonia. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. N. D. Timmerman, interment being in Little River cemetery.

John Edwin Todd was born January 12, 1859, in Polk County Georgia to John and Sarah Sherrill Todd. His family moved to Milam county when he was less than one year old, and settled one year later on the farm where deceased has lived continuously until the time of his death.

Mr. Todd was a member of the Baptist Church and a Mason. In a quiet, unassuming manner he went about his daily life, considering small accomplishments as valuable and necessary as the larger, more spectacular feats of life. His was a practical religion; he was ever ready to extend a helping hand to those in want or distress, and many a burdened heart was made lighter by his kindly ministrations.

Mr. Todd believed the full exercise of citizenship every man's privilege and duty. He derived much pleas-

BUILDING IS OFFERED CITY

Prompt action on the part of the Commissioners' Court could obtain for the county seat an agricultural building to house the offices of the county agents and provide other needed space, it was disclosed here Monday by J. R. Hays, postmaster.

The building would cost $12,250 and the county would be required to expend only $1800 or less. County Judge Kemp was advising with Mr. Hays on the matter.

Cameron could also get a $21,000 marketing shed and slaughter pen at a cost of about $2500 the fedeal government putting up $8 for every $1 locally supplied.

Cameron and Milam county have been sadly lacking in government favor.

These proposals are regarded as the most important developments and the county would lose heavily if it fails to take advantage of them, it was said.

Holiday buying in Cameron was given a big boost today when Leland Green of the Green & Boedeker Stores announced a business expansion sale for the holidays.

Many car loads of produce have been shipped by this firm during the fall. The store is one of the largest market centers in central Texas.

"I believe our store offers the best buying opportunities in its history during the business expansion sale and holiday buying weeks," said Mr. Green, who was very busy unloading and getting in great stocks for the event.

LATE NEWS FLASHES

VOTE THURSDAY

All indications pointed to a quiet election Thursday when the voters in Milam county go to the polls and decide on the question of repeal. Milam county has been "dry" since 1917. It was regarded as certain the only hopeful results from repeal would be to tax and regulate the traffic. Under prohibition liquo rsales were uninterrupted.

CITY CALLS ELECTION FOR DECEMBER 27TH

A bond election has been called for December 27th to authorize issuance of $36,000 in securities for a physical education and vocation building at Yoe High school.

This is regarded as the most important prospect of school improvement in recent years. The Herald will print in the next issue a detailed description of the proposed building which is to be larger than the Ada Henderson school.

A tax of 15c will be levied to pay off the bonds by 1949. Contract has already been let subject to the issuance of bonds. The government will pay the city $20,000.

The statement not only shows a good cash balance but its detail may be understood by all. Mr. Tyson is to be congratulated on his efficient method in preparing this statement to the people.

FARMER SCHOOL AT MAYSFIELD

An evening school has been organized at the Maysfield high school for those farmers who are interested in discussing the problems of dairy cattle feeding and management and all farmers of that and nearby communities are invited to attend the school was organized last Tuesday night, plans were set up for regular weekly meetings and feeding the Grain Mixture was selected as the subject for discussion at the next regular meeting E. D. Parnell, CameronVocational Agriculture teacher, will be in charge of the school and the service will be rendered without charge to the community.

An attendance committee of T. F. Floyd and Jim Francis was appointed Tuesday night, and R. C. Heaslee was made secretary for the school. The meetings will begin each Wednesday night at 7:30 and will continue for 1 1-2 hours, members agreed. Subjects for the coming meetings will be selected by the members from week to week, and subjects other than dairying may be included in the course.

It is expected that from 10 to 12 meetings will be held. All farmers are cordially invited to attend these meetings, Parnell says.

County Superintendent Guy T. Newton accompanied Parnell to the meeting Tuesday night.

STORE ALSO IS LOOTED

The United States Postoffice at Jones Prairie was robbed Monday night when safe crackers blew the vault and took ariund $150 in money. Of this amount $60 was government cash. The remainder belonging to the Tom Stidham store.

Mr. Stidham discovered the robbery early Tuesday and telephoned officers. J. R. Hays, Cameron postmaster was notified and postal inspectors were on the job.

Ammunition was taken from the store. Mr. Stidham reported a case and a half of shells stolen.

This was the third postal robbery in the county within the past two years. Clyde Barrow, slain desperado, was revealed in a detective magazine, as having planned and made an attempt to rob the Port Sullivan office.

UNDER THE COURT HOUSE DOME

By Berenice Mc Lerran

The county officials on the second floor of the court house have moved into their new offices and seem to be pleased with their locations.

District Judge W. G. Gillis is now located in the office formerly occupied by the County School Superintendent. Emory B. Camp, district attorney, has his office in what was known as the "book room," and the County School Superintendent, Guy T. Newton, occupies the two offices formerly occupied by the district attorney and the court reporter. The space which was heretofore the office of Judge Gillis, was divided so as to make a private office for the court reporter, Ray O'Neill, and a waiting room for the witnesses.

The wets and the drys of the county will go to the polls today to vote to determine whether or not the sale of liquors shall be prohibited or legalized. Since the Commissioners' Court several days ago ordered an election, there just doesn't seem to be much discussion of the subject. What's the use anyway? Even if the county should vote dry it wouldn't make a bit of difference. Sale of liquor would go on just the same. The fault is not with the law. Officers of this county have done their part to enforce prohibition since this county went dry in 1917. This seems to be the stage where the country is not only "crime crazy" but "liquor crazy."

On January 18, a man who can talk but whose enunciation is not distinct, who is deaf, but can understand words spoken to him by reading the lips, will defend himself in court. He is charged with assault with intent to murder. "All I want is a chance to prove I am not guilty" he was overheard to say to the judge. "Dummy," as he is known, is no going to have a lawyer to represent him, and he has made the statement that he is going to make the jury a speech that they never heard before and will have them crying before it it over. Don't know whether this is going to turn out to be a joke or not, but will be on hand to see.

Use Sleigh Bells for Jolly Christmas Game

HERE is a new and exciting game to play at a Christmas party. First borrow a set of sleigh bells. They are not as easy to find as in the old days. Find a string with tuneful, varying notes if you wish the game to jingle to the full measure of holiday fun.

The idea is simply this: It is possible to suggest, then control the action of a person who does not know what is in your mind, but must find out through the sound of the bells. Here is the way to do it:

Send one of the guests from the room. The remainder decide what he must do. For instance—go to a certain table, pick up a book, take it to another table and place it near the lamp. Here are four separate acts in succession.

The person outside is called back. Somebody has been chosen to be the manipulator of the bells. He must use a nice judgment in using them, ringing softly when the act approaches what is in the minds of all; ringing loudly as the perplexed player moves away. Try it. Use subtle gradations of sound to guide your experiment. Without a word being spoken he will at last be guided to do what has been secretly agreed upon. Loud ringing when he is far from his goal or going from it, soft, soft, barely audible when he is near the doing of what is required.—Martha Banning Thomas.

Good King Wenceslas

Good King Wenceslas, immortalized in the well known carol, was really a Bohemian prince who died in A. D. 935. His name should properly be spelt "Wenceslaus." He was famous for his great kindness to the poor and needy. When, in September, A. D. 935, he was killed by his brother, Boleslav, the people of the country were heartbroken. He is still regarded as their patron saint.—Tit Bits Magazine.

Crude Toys For Children

Simple or crude toys like box blocks, nested cans, floor boats, stick horses, and sand, often give a child more chance to use his imagination than do more elaborate, complex, and expensive toys.

Mistletoe a Parasite

The mistletoe, traditional Christmas decoration, much more in favor in earlier days, when the ardent swains were not so forward and the maidens were more reversed, is found most abundantly in the tropics, although it is widely distributed throughout the world. The mistletoe is a parasite, living on the sap of the trees around which it entwines itself. On the Atlantic seaboard of the United States the mistletoe is found as far north as the Jersey coast, but is more abundant farther South.

When Christ Was a Child

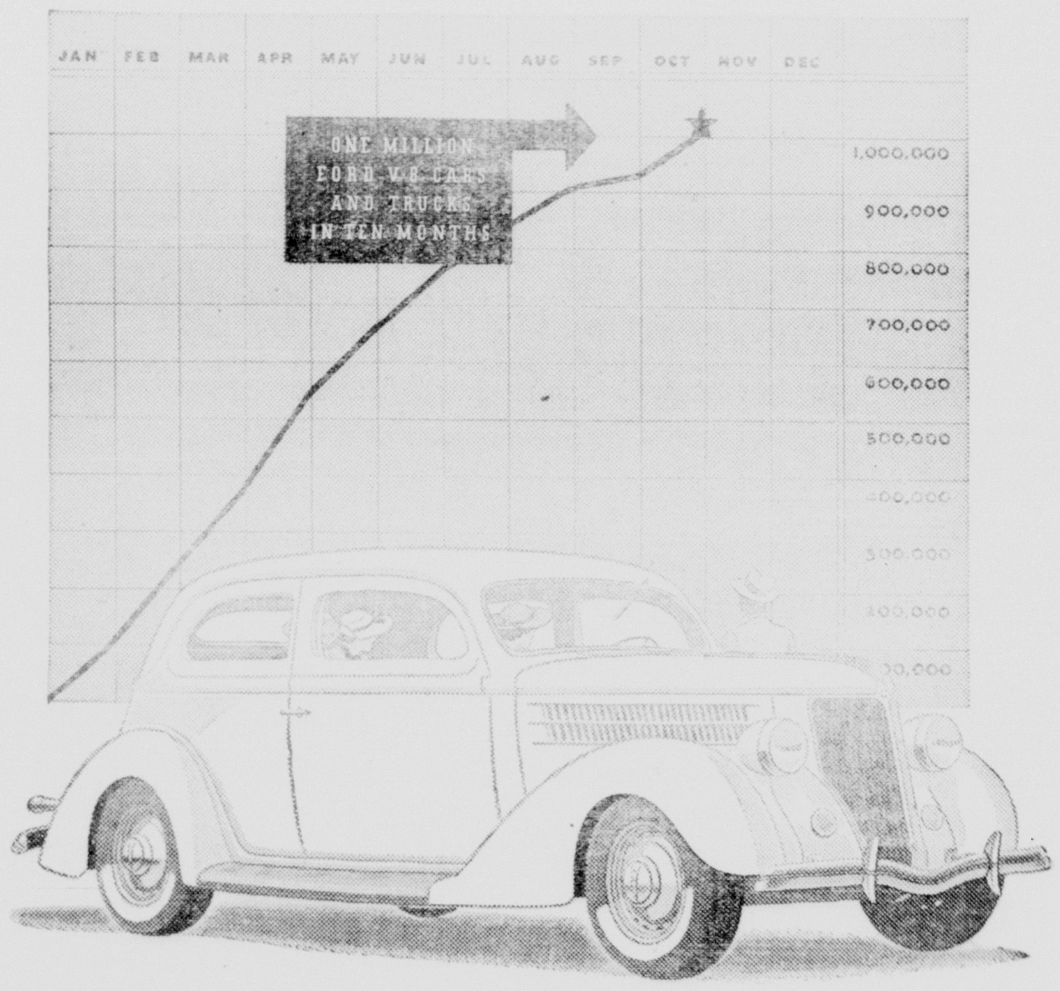
V·8 LEADERSHIP



On October 31 of last year, Henry Ford announced his intention to build a million Ford V-8s in 1935. We are pleased to report that this goal was reached in exactly ten months instead of a full year.

One million cars and trucks is an impressive total. But figures by themselves mean nothing. It is what they represent that counts. Selling a V-8 at a low price has brought a new kind of automobile within reach of the people. Producing it has provided steady work for hundreds of thousands of men in the Ford plants, in associated industries and on the farm.

These million Ford V-8 cars and trucks have helped to make things better all around. In the first ten months of 1935 the Ford Motor Company paid out, in the United States alone, $140,119,326.00 in wages and $523,111,389.00 for materials.

"Joe, get up! It's seven forty-five, and you will be late to school if you don't hurry."

"Aw, mom, I had a date last night and didn't get in until two. Let me sleep a few more minutes; I bet you didn't even go to school when you were a kid."

"O, yes I did. I walked three miles to a one-room wooden building where the only furniture was a stove, benches and a chair and desk for the teacher. The first person to school built the fire for we had no janitor. At eight fifteen the teacher rang the bell, and after the students were seated on the hard wooden benches, a monitor took up the wraps placing them in a closet. Except for an hour off for lunch, which we carried to school with us, we studied until four, and the teacher had an oak rod waiting for the unlucky pupil who did not study diligently. If we wanted a drink we had to draw it from the well."

After dressing and eating Joe walked three blocks to school thinking about what his mother had said. Later that day several students were astounded to hear Joe, who usually complained about school, remark: "Say, fellows, Yoe High is a keen ole school, ain't it?"

Keep Us on the Jump

DAY AND NIGHT

NEW families . . new homes . . new stores . . new factories . . improved homes . . growing families . . bigger and better stores . . expanding factories . . all forms of growth and change in the life of a community add to the demand for more electric service.

New and better electrical devices are daily put into use in more homes, stores, places of business and industry. They "get the job done" with greater ease, comfort and convenience . . and, for less money. At the same time they call for more electric power.

Life is movement. The life of a community is never at a standstill. All of it demands more electric service. A surprisingly large amount of it depends upon the constant availability of dependable, low-cost electric service.

It is easy to see, therefore, that the Texas Power & Light Company can not build its equipment to supply only today's demands. Tomorrow's demands will be bigger than today's. They must be provided for . . they must be foreseen, so that, regardless of the increase in size of a community, and in the activity of the people, adequate electric power will be available to answer all demands.

"Growing Pains" of Our Own

Inventors and scientists are steadily perfecting better methods of producing and distributing electric power. Yesterday's equipment is frequently made obsolete by the perfection of a newer method. The use of these newer methods sometimes makes it possible for us to lower the cost of Texas Power & Light service. Therefore, we must use the highest degree of engineering skill and foresight to take advantage of better methods with the least amount of loss through discarding of obsolete equipment.

This alertness, this "stickin'-to-the-job," has made Texas Power & Light service unexcelled anywhere. During the past ten years the average cost of residential lighting service has been lowered more than 35 per cent to Texas Power & Light customers. Yes, the Stork, the Builder, Dan Cupid, the Mover, and the Inventor have kept us on the jump, resulting in better and cheaper electric service to our customers.

Good King Wenceslas

Good King Wincelas, immortalized in the well known carol, was really a Bohemian prince who died in A. D. 935. His name should properly be spelt "Wenceslas." He was famous for his great kindness to the poor and needy. When in September, A. D. 935, he was killed by his brother, Boleslav, the people of his country were heartbroken. He is still regarded as their patron saint.—Tit Bits Magazine.

Aunt Martha's Christmas

By ALICE B. PALMER

Memories of the long ago kept ringing like sleighbells in the ears of dear old Aunt Martha as she sat alone in her favorite window seat by the side of some old-fashioned geraniums and pondered the fact of its being Christmas eve.

She looked outside beyond the icicles which hung like grim sentinels toward the snow-coated trees and heavy drifts heaped high by the wayside and she was reminded of the beautiful story of "Snowbound." But in that home there had been people—people and people, gentle and boisterous voices everywhere."

"This will never do," suddenly spoke Martha Graham, rousing herself and trying to shake off the haunting memories. "I must prepare for a joyous, merry Christmas just as if those people were really here."

With a spirit of youthfulness beyond ordinary endurance, Aunt Martha dashed kitchenward, every fibre of her being enriched by the Christmas Spirit. The next moment she was busily engaged in preparation of all the holiday delicacies which she thought these people would like.

Soon delicious odors of sizzling doughnuts and soft sour milk cookies such as only Aunt Martha could make, were in evidence.

When all was completed, together with a pitcher of steaming hot chocolate, Aunt Martha sat down and realized that there were no people to partake of her carefully prepared delicacies.

With a start, she realized that she heard voices, not visionary ones, but loud, wild shouts coming from without. She could scarcely see through the blinding snowstorm.

Now, she actually heard footsteps! "It must be true!" thought Aunt Martha, as she threw open the door. Sure enough there they were, her imaginary "Snowboud" people for whom she had been preparing the Yuletide feast.

'Twas the joyous carol singers. They had become lost in the snowstorm and were almost frozen.

"Come in! Come in!" cried dear old Aunt Martha.

Then followed such a Christmas welcome and greeting as they had never received before. Aunt Martha, their hostess, sat at the head of the table smiling and beaming, passing her Christmas goodies and pouring out the steaming hot chocolate. She secretly rejoiced as she accepted the carol singers as an answer to her loving thought of service on Christmas eve.

Add an aspirin tablet to the water and prepare to have a flourishing tree this year.

Lady's Painful Trouble Helped By Cardui

Why do so many women take Cardui for the relief of functional pains at monthly times? The answer is that they want results such as Mrs. Herbert W. Hunt, of Hallsville, Texas, describes. She writes: "My health wasn't good. I suffered from cramping. My pain would be so intense it would nauseate me. I would just drag around, so sluggish and 'doless.' My mother decided to give me Cardui. I began to mend. That tired, sluggish feeling was gone and the pains disappeared. I can't praise Cardui too highly because I know it helped me." If Cardui does not help YOU, consult a physician.

How to Keep Colds UNDER better CONTROL

Catching Cold?.. Vicks Va-tro-nol helps Prevent many Colds

At the first warning nasal irritation, sniffle or sneeze, use Vicks Va-tro-nol—just a few drops up each nostril. Va-tro-nol is especially designed for the nose and upper throat—where most colds start. It stimulates Nature's own functions—in the nose—to help prevent colds, and to throw off head colds in their early stages. Used in time, Va-tro-nol helps avoid many colds.

Caught a Cold?.. Vicks VapoRub helps End a Cold Sooner

If a cold has developed, rub Vicks VapoRub on throat and chest at bedtime. VapoRub acts direct—two ways at once: (1) By stimulation through the skin like a poultice or plaster; (2) By inhalation of its medicated vapors direct to inflamed air-passages. Through the night, this combined vapor-poultice action loosens phlegm, soothes irritation, helps break congestion.

Find Out

From Your Doctor if the "Pain" Remedy You Take Is Safe.

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

BEFORE you take any preparation you don't know all about, for the relief of headaches; or the pains of rheumatism, neuritis or neuralgia, ask your doctor what he thinks about it — in comparison with Genuine Bayer Aspirin.

We say this because, before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin, most so-called "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as being bad for the stomach; or, often, for the heart. And the discovery of Bayer Aspirin largely changed medical practice.

Countless thousands of people who have taken Bayer Aspirin year in and out without ill effect, have proved that the medical findings about its safety were correct.

Remember this: Genuine Bayer Aspirin is rated among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and all common pains . . . and safe for the average person to take regularly.

You can get real Bayer Aspirin at any drug store — simply by never asking for it by the name "aspirin" alone, but always saying BAYER ASPIRIN when you buy.

Aunt Martha's Christmas

By Alice B. Palmer

MEMORIES of the long ago kept ringing like sleighbells in the ears of dear old Aunt Martha as she sat alone in her favorite window seat by the side of some old-fashioned geraniums and pondered the fact of its being Christmas eve.

She looked outside beyond the icicles which hung like grim sentinels toward the snow-coated trees and heavy drifts heaped high by the wayside and she was reminded of the beautiful story of "Snowbound." "But in that home there had been people—people and people—gentle and boisterous—in every where."

"This will never do," suddenly spoke Martha Graham, rousing herself and trying to shake off the haunting memories. "I must prepare for a joyous Merry Christmas just as if those people were really here."

With a spirit of youthfulness beyond ordinary endurance, Aunt Martha dashed kitchenward, every fibre of her being enriched by the Christmas spirit. The next moment she was busily engaged in preparation of all the holiday delicacies which she thought these people would like.

Soon delicious odors of sizzling doughnuts and soft sour milk cookies, such as only Aunt Martha could make, were in evidence.

When all was completed, together with a pitcher of steaming hot chocolate, Aunt Martha sat down and realized that there were no people to partake of her carefully prepared delicacies.

With a start, she realized that she heard voices, real voices, not visionary ones, but loud wild shouts coming from without. She could scarcely see through the blinding snowstorm.

Now she actually heard footsteps! "It must be true!" thought Aunt Martha, as she threw open the door. Sure enough there they were, her imaginary "Snowbound" people for whom she had been preparing the Yuletide feast.

'Twas the joyous carol singers. They had become lost in the snowstorm and were almost frozen.

"Come in! Come in!" cried dear old Aunt Martha.

Then followed such a Christmas welcome and greeting as they had never received before. Aunt Martha, their hostess, sat at the head of the table smiling and beaming, passing her Christmas goodies and pouring out the steaming hot chocolate. She secretly rejoiced as she accepted the carol singers as an answer to her loving thought of service on Christmas eve.

In the management of the City Government, the Mayor and Board of Aldermen have exercised a policy of strict economy as far as possible. In adhering to this policy the administration has been able to offer to the tax payers the unusual privilege of a liberal discount for the prompt payment of taxes and at the same time dispatched the business of the City on a cash basis.

For the year 1935, all tax levies were made according to the statutes governing same and the proper amounts levied for the various sinking funds. As collections are received and remittances made to the Secretary proper distributions to the several funds are made and deposited accordingly.

I have endeavored to compile accurately the above statement showing in detail as far as possible the status of the City's financial condition indicating all receipts and disbursements separately, particularly the major items. In some cases I have grouped or condensed some of the smaller transactions in order that the statement would not be too lengthy. However, if the figures and the arrangement of same are difficult or complicated, and not readily interpreted, either as it relates to the general fund, bonds and sinking funds, I shall be glad to explain and verify if requested to do so.

Very truly,
DAN TYSON,
City Secretary, Cameron, Texas.

The San Gabriel Pirate Tales

THE SCHOOL LIBRARY

One of the greatest assets to the student is the school library, but just how many use this library in the proper way?

It is true that magazines and newspapers have been put in the library for your benefit, but they were put there to be read, and not for the purpose of helping you "pass away your time."

Since I am a librarian myself, I can truthfully say that some students never check out anything but magazines and newspapers, and only want them for the funny pictures that they might contain.

Our library has many interesting and valuable educational books, which we should use. These books would enlighten us in many ways and since we are in the act of getting an education, we should endeavor to make use of every opportunity which is given to us.

Each student should strive to use these books and magazines to an advantage. Our library is used by many, but it could be used by all and to a better advantage by all.

Use our library as it should be used, but don't abuse it. Help the librarians by checking out just what you will use.

PROGRESS IN SPEECH

Speech, a new course taught in San Gabriel High School, is one in which all students seem to be interested. Even those students who do not take the course, take a great interest in it. As I am a student who takes the course, I can say that it is one of the most interesting subjects I have ever taken.

The speech class is completing contract II of their work; fundamentals of speech have been taken up, discussed, exercised, and each student is completing the contract by writing an original declamation on some subject about Texas. In a survey we find the following subjects have been chosen: "The Typical Texan," "Father of Texas," "Texas Pioneers," "Pioneer Texas Makes Modern Texas," "Texanism and the Hope of Texas." These declamations, after being approved by the teacher, are to be given in public some time soon.

There are two more contracts to be completed this semester. It is the aim of the Speech Class to present four public programs during the year. Our first will be a Christmas program to be given at the Baptist church on Sunday night before Christmas. Each student will have a leading part on the program and the class, as a whole, will have charge of the stage setting, lighting, costuming, and makeup.

For our outside work the following subjects have been chosen; collections of modern poetry; collection of modern prose and poetry and grouping them for special day programs; costuming and make-up, character study, and present day dramatic happenings and scenes from present day dramas. These projects are to be made in the form of booklets. Each student is doing his best to make his project the best.

Before receiving a credit in this new course, each student is required to make fifteen reputable public appearances.

Interesting outside reading material has been placed at the hands of the students so they might increase their reading knowledge.

Dramatics-play Production, its technique and fundamentals, is to be taught in the later half of the course. Each student is waiting anxiously for that time to come for they feel that it will be even more interesting than the work they are doing now.

More and more, as the days go by, we, the speech class, believe with Wilson that "the knowledge of words is the gateway of scholarship."

THE FOURTH GRADE

Geography

In geography we have been studying about Mesopotamia, the "Land of Two Great Rivers." These are the Tigris and the Euphrates. Below are some poems which the "Land of the Two Great Rivers" suggested to three fourth grades.

I should like to rise and go
Down the Tigris long and wide;
Where the palm trees grow.
And where the dates are dried.
—By Gus Clark.

The Tigris is a very large river.
A koofish is a very large boat.
The storms make the Arabs shiver.
The Arab girls herd the goats.
—By Claudie Hall.

The people in Bagdad are quite queer.
When they are on keleks and koofahs they have no fear.
In the date palm gardens green
Many busy people are seen.
—By Bobbe Nell Case.

Below are some riddles which were also suggested from a study of the "Land of Two Rivers."

1. It has many turns and curves, and water which runs on forever. What is it? Tigris R.

2. Round as a basket; deep as a tub; it will go. What is it? ? A koofah.

3. It has four legs and furnishes the Arabs with clothes, meat and milk. A goat.
—By Gus Clark.

1. Can travel a long way without getting me a drink. What am I? A Camel.
By Aline Beutow.

1. I am a river formed by the joining of the Tigris and the Euphrates Rivers. What am I? The Shat-el-Arab.
By Ouida Baird.

Nice For Christmas Gifts

Jars of mince meat, fruit juices, jams, jellies or baked foods make nice remembrances and carry an individual touch.

Living Christmas Trees

Longer life for Christmas trees is advocated by the United States forest service, in a note suggesting that a living tree with roots properly balled and packed in a box may be used indoors and later set out to beautify the grounds.

Christmas Presents to Suit Individual Tastes

Bertha Nevins and her best friend, Mary Parks, were discussing Christmas. "It's absurd, Mary," Bertha was saying, "for two grown women to spend quite a lot of money, as we do each year, for foolish presents."

"But, Bertha, we have no families, and it wouldn't seem like Christmas at all——"

"Oh, we'll exchange gifts, of course, darling. Only I think we have been good friends so long, we should be perfectly frank about what we want."

"You have something in mind," Mary smiled, and as Bertha agreed—"Well," she continued—"so have I. Something I've wanted for ever so long."

"What?" asked Bertha.

"Guess. It is to be put in my living room, near the window. The main part is small, and the outside need not be large——"

"What is it made of?"

"Wood, usually, and metal. Metal wires anyway. And it will be company for me——"

"To have sweet melody floating on the air. Am I right? and the color doesn't matter so long as it has a clear tone?"

"Why, yes, but how did you guess so quickly?"

"Because I wanted exactly the same thing for just ages. I'll give you one and you give me one!"

But what Christmas brought to Bertha was a radio, while Mary got a cage and canary.—Helen Gaisford.

Demand for Christmas Toys

Children are still running true to form in their requests to Santa Claus. The girls still want dolls, play furniture and toy household appliances and the boys want cowboy suits and mechanical toys year after year.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Green and two daughters of San Antonio, and Miss Dorothy Kidd of State, were holiday guests of Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Kidd.

I FEEL FINE

Mothers read this:

A CONSTIPATED child is so easily straightened out, it's a pity more mothers don't know the remedy.

A liquid laxative is the answer, mothers. The answer to all your worries over constipation. A liquid can be measured. The dose can be exactly suited to any age or need. Just reduce the dose each time, until the bowels are moving of their own accord and need no help.

This treatment will succeed with any child and with any adult.

Doctors use liquid laxatives. Hospitals use the liquid form. If it is best for their use, it is best for home use. And today, there are fully a million families that will have no other kind in the house.

The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is a doctor's prescription, now so widely known that you can get it all ready for use at any drugstore.

Our Santa Claus

The American Santa Claus is a corruption of the Dutch Santa Nicholas, G. H. McHughes says: "Santa Claus the name derived from St. Nicholas thru the familiar use of children in Teutonic countries, crossed to America. The direct route followed by him is somewhat open to question. On the way he traded his gray horse for a reindeer and made changes in his appearance."

NO MISTAKE

A Christmas Story

By HELEN GAISFORD

"Christmas," reasoned Mary, "is a very foolish time to quarrel with one's sweetheart."

She was knitting half-heartedly on the tie she had started for Bob a week ago. Well, now it could be for her father. The color might be a bit too bright—if Bob weren't so stubborn! The needles clicked viciously.

Her mother was busy wrapping presents. "Mary, she called "dont you want to invite Bob for Christmas dinner?"

"No, thanks," she answered rather stiffly. "That affair's all over."

"You haven't broken up!" Her mother came to the door. "Why, Bob is quite the nicest boy you've ever gone with. I'll bet he's blue."

"There!" Mary interrupted. "The tie's finished. Put it in with the other presents for dad, will you mother, and I'll go up in the attic and find the Christmas tree decorations."

It was such a queer Christmas morning! Mary kept having a little lump in her throat, and every time anyone said: "Merry Christmas," she wanted to snap: "Oh, yeah?"

But when it came time to put the potatoes around the turkey, and start the pudding steaming, the doorbell rang. "You go, Mary," said her mother. "I am too busy."

It was Bob with the biggest bouquet of flowers, and his dear smile, and a package all green and gold.

"Gee, Mary," he grinned. "Merry Christmas!"

"It is—it is!" she answered.

"Can't I come in?"

"Of course. Oh, for me? Both of them? Bob, you shouldn't!" A panicky thought: "Can I get that tie back out of Dad's package—or shall I just give him anything—or—?"

He took her hand. "Mary, darling, don't you think it awful foolish for us to quarrel? I've been miserable."

"So have I. It was my fault."

"No, it was mine."

"Bob, do not argue. It was mine."

"Anyway, forgive me." He kissed her and held her close and whispered in her ear.

After a while she pulled away. "Bob, where did you get that tie?"

"Why you sent it to me."

"I? Oh, of course. Excuse me a moment." In the kitchen she confronted her mother. "Did you send Bob that tie?" she demanded.

"Why, yes dear," the older woman admitted. "Did I make a mistake?"

"Mistake nothing!" She caught her in a bear hug. "Bob and I are going to be married, darling. Isn't this a wonderful Christmas?"

Christmas in Christ's Land Is Without Snow

LITTLE Christian children who live in Jerusalem or who are traveling there with their parents will not have a snowy Christmas. Snow almost never falls in Palestine, for the temperature is seldom below 38 degrees. When it does snow, the flakes melt as soon as they touch the ground.

Most of the people in the country where the infant Jesus was born do not celebrate Christmas, however! For only a few of them are Christians; most are Moslems or Jews. There are some Christmas trees in Christian homes, and gifts are exchanged among those who observe Christ's birthday. But there are no street decorations and no late shopping problems. The post offices have no big signs urging "Mail your packages early!"

Yet there is probably no place in the world more appropriate to visit at Christmas. The Holy Sepulchre is in the old part of the city, and at Bethlehem, six miles south, is a great church that has replaced the humble inn where Christ was born. Inside is a large flat stone on which the infant Jesus is supposed to have been laid, reminding us how Christianity grew from one humble life.—Frances Grinstead.

The Need of Santa Claus

"If there were no God it would be necessary to invent him," said a well-known writer. There is no Santa Claus in our grown-up world, but we have found we needed him as one of the most beloved characters in the world of childhood, which is peopled with legends of the child's own making. The enchanting belief in Santa and his reindeer, his paunch and his pack filled with toys will never hurt a child. The cynical grown-ups, who have too completely lost their belief in him and his kind, need your help.

Demand for Christmas Toys

Children are still running true to form in their requests to Santa Claus. The girls still want dolls, play furniture and toy household appliances and the boys want cowboy suits and mechanical toys year after year.

"IF SOME one would only take us out and exercise us!" growled Blitzen.

"Here we stand in the stables month after month and Santa hardly comes near us. I've almost forgotten how to race with a cloud or land on a roof."

"I know it," agreed Donder from his stall. "For three years now our master has taken his presents around the world in a flying machine.

"I'm fed up with this dull life!"

"We're no good to anyone," declared Comet. "I wonder if the children miss us?"

There was a long silence in the stables. Then suddenly the doors were flung wide. A little round man in a red coat bounced in.

"Come on, come on!" he called. "Jump fast into the harness. We're going on our rounds in five minutes! I've had ten million letters from children saying they can't possibly go to sleep Christmas eve unless they hear my reindeer pounding on the roof. Off with you!"

The sleigh zipped out of the stable in a twinkling. "After all," said Santa, "I think my reindeer are better than airplanes. They never have engine trouble. Get up, Donder! Go on, Blitzen!"

The bells jangled, the reins slapped, the sleigh swept forth on its age-old journey.—Martha Banning Thomas.

Journey From Nazareth, Birth of Christ Child

ALMOST two thousand years ago the great emperor, Caesar Augustus, sent out a decree that the whole world should be enrolled. Each one was to go to his own city: to the place of his fathers. None were exempt from the decree.

From the hill town of Nazareth two people set out in answer to the summons. One, a tall, bearded figure, his shoulders sagging under the weight of years, and from the continued stooping that his trade as a carpenter necessitated. The other, a young and beautiful woman, her face aglow with a strange sweet serenity. Their names were Joseph and Mary, and they were going to the distant town of Bethlehem, because they were of the house of David.

The man walked patiently beside the plodding donkey on which the woman was seated. They showed no impatience as others passed them by; nor did they join with any of their fellow travelers in venting anger against Caesar for taking them on such a long and tiresome journey.

Perhaps because of Joseph's age, or of Mary's delicate condition, they were among the last to enter Bethlehem, and to seek a shelter at the inn. They were told that there was no room for them there. Their humble appearance made no appeal to the innkeeper on a night when more prosperous looking guests were crowding the doors.

Disappointed and fearful, they sought further. But they could find no place. Some one spoke of a cave outside the town. Joseph looked at Mary and his eyes filled with tears. But she nodded assent. . . . And in that lowly place, warmed only by the breath of oxen, Jesus, the hope and promise of all mankind, was born into the world!—Katherine Edelman.

Approaching Marriage of Foldine Rylander To William Burns December 11 Announced

A pretty party was given by Mrs. Lester Williams Friday night when she named as honor guest her sister, Miss Foldine Rylander.

Beautiful miniature chrysanthemums in dainty orchid shades were attractively used in the decorations of the home, and made a lovely environment for these tables of contract bridge players. During the evening a cup labeled "Central Freight" holding miniature diplomas tied with small green satin ribbons, was passed for each guest to draw from. On opening them written on the scroll was "Bill and Foldine, December 11, 1935" announcing the approaching marriage of Miss Foldine Rylander and Walter N. Burns. Good wishes and happy greetings were extended to the future bride, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Rylander, popular young lady of Cameron. Mr. Burns is the son of Mrs. S. M. Burns of Cameron, and known as Bill Burns by his many friends.

At the close of the merry games highest score was made by Mrs. William Howard Baskin. The hooree and score winners received lovely Fosteria glassware.

The hostess served her guests with fruit cake with whipped cream, topped with a green cherry and hot coffee. Favors were tiny white chrysanthemums tied with small green satin ribbons.
